

BEST PRACTICE GUIDELINES
30TH NOVEMBER 2011

Course Outline

The Best Practice Guidelines for the Irish Wind Energy Industry were first published by IWEA in 1994 to act as a guide to the main issues which wind energy developers should be aware of when developing projects. The guidelines were updated in 2008. These guidelines have now been updated again and this course provides an overview of the revised guidelines with particular emphasis on the updated sections. Discussions of various parts of the guidelines will be tailored towards the needs of those attending the course.

Course Content

- Introduction
- Overview of Wind Energy Project Development
- Guidelines for Feasibility Studies
- Wind Monitoring and Analysis
- Wind Farm Layout
- Environmental Impact Assessment and Planning Permission
- Contracts and Construction
- Health & Safety
- Operation, Maintenance & Decommissioning or Repowering
- Community Consultation

Learning Outcome

On completion of this course, all participants will be familiar with the contents of the newly updated Best Practice Guidelines. On top of this, the implications of certain guidelines will be explored, depending on the topics of interest to course attendees.
